Liquor 'Still' Near Adelphi Is Found Following Search

'STILL OF THE AFTERNOON' — Here is some of the loot captured by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department and State Liquor Control officers following a five-hour search for the still on Saturday. The homemade operation was found near Bull Creek about four miles south of Adelphi. Viewing the scene are, from the left, Sheriff Walton W. Spangler, Deputy William Pontius and State Liquor Control Agent William Harshbarger.

A Ross County moonshiner was apprehended about 5:30 p. m. Saturday four miles south of Adelphi by combined efforts of the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department and the State Department of Liquor Control.

Noble Congrove, near Adelphi, was taken to Ross County Jail following the apprehension. He will face state charges for the illegal possession of liquor.

The "moonshine raid" began at 5:30 p. m. Friday when Raymond Smith, Route 4, was picked up by Sheriff Spangler with a gallon of homemade corn liquor in his auto.

Following a rigorous interrogation, Sheriff Spangler and Deputy Pontius requested a search warrant from Ross County to enter and search the area. The district office of the Liquor Control Board, Portsmouth, was notified of the incident.

WILLIAM Harshbarger, Portsmouth Liquor Control Agent, accompanied Spangler and Pontius, along with Ross County Deputy Sheriff Carl Reisinger to the area south of Adelphi known as "Bull Creek." (Bull Creek to natives).

The so-called "Revenuers" dressed in civilian clothes, arrived in the area around 1:30 p. m. The Congroves were unwilling to divulge the location of the still.

Spangler said the search warrant enabled him to enter the dwelling. But no evidence of a still was found within.

"However," Spangler said, "We found quite a supply of sugar in the house." Congrove told the sheriff that it was used for canning.

The search began. The sher-

Auto Crashes Detour Sign; Woman Injured

A Cincinnati woman received minor injuries at 7:30 a. m. yesterday about two miles east of Williamsport when the auto in which she was a passenger crashed through a detour sign.

William Carpenter, driver of the vehicle, was not injured, according to Deputy Sheriff Neil Childress.

Gertrude Carpenter, 34, received contusions of the forehead and lacerations of both legs. She was treated and released at Berger Hospital.

Carpenter told Deputy Childress she was blinded by him as he approached the detour. He said he applied his brakes, hit a hole in the road and the auto skidded in some gravel.

The auto was thrown out-of-control and into the ditch. Considerable damage was done to the front end and both sides of the auto, according to Childress.

Dominican Chief To Name Cabinet

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo's hand-picked President Joaquin Balaguer was given a free hand to name his own cabinet today after 11 of the 12 ministers resigned. But they asked him to keep the policies of the slain dictator.

The resignations came after the ruling Dominican Party voted unanimously to back the 53-year-old Balaguer, professor-diplomat turned politician.

The defense minister, Maj. Gen. Santos Melido Marte, who was named after Trujillo's assassination May 30, was the only cabinet minister that did not resign.

Balaguer did not indicate immediately whether he would accept any or all of the resignations.

Spangler said according to Harshbarger, Congrove probably will face the Ross County Grand Jury. He will be held in the Ross County Jail pending a preliminary hearing.

South Korean Military Boss Resigns Posts

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young resigned today from the top posts in South Korea's military government.

Maj. Gen. Pak Chung-hi, generally credited with being the strongest man of the regime, was named head of the ruling junta.

Chang's other job of premier was assigned to retired Lt. Gen. Song Yo-chan, burly 6-foot defense minister who was army chief of staff when President Syngman Rhee was overthrown last year.

Chang in a statement said he was resigning because South Korea needs "a leader who is more aggressive and who commands great respect and confidence at home and abroad."

It was generally assumed, however, that he had lost in a struggle for power within the top military leadership.

The resignation was announced after an emergency Cabinet session at which Chang arrived flanked by a heavy guard of 20 plainclothesmen. He left the Capitol building after the meeting under heavy guard, but a spokesman for the junta denied that he was under arrest.

Chang, 38, was the front man for the group of officers who on May 16 seized control of Seoul and overthrew the elected government of Premier John M. Chang.

Holiday Highway Slaughter Runs Ahead of Estimate

Partial Arms Buildup Asked In Berlin Crisis

Retired Air Chieftain
Sees 'Fair Chance'
Of War Breaking Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Thomas D. White, retired Air Force chief of staff, says "there is a fair chance" of war breaking out over Berlin.

And as one way of emphasizing the danger to Americans he suggested a partial mobilization.

"I don't think we have had a very firm expression of the determination of the American people," said White, who stepped down as Air Force Chief just three days ago. "Mobilization of some of bringing it home to the people that we must be solidly behind the President."

White, interviewed Sunday on the NBC-TV program Meet the Press, said if the Soviets or East Germans tried to blockade Berlin again, he would be in favor of breaking it with a ground attack rather than going over it with an air lift. He added, "Maybe we ought to do it both ways."

Asked if he thought a Berlin war was certain to turn into a nuclear war, White replied no.

But he said, "I think that if the Soviet Union should join in, it is almost inevitable that it would degenerate into a general war. I don't see how two great nations can stake their entire prestige, their national policy against each other and either one back down."

In New York, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon warned Sunday against weakening the U.S. position on Berlin.

He said a compromise would be "disastrous for us and for the whole free world."

It is "essential that President Kennedy shoot down any trial balloons, whether from legislative leaders or from allies abroad, indicating that our position on Berlin will be compromised or softened."

Nixon, interviewed on a taped radio show, said any new spending for domestic purposes not related to national defense should be shelved.

Like White, two Republican senators talked Sunday of a "partial mobilization of American armed strength" or an increase in forces in West Berlin.

Sen. Jacob J. Javits, R-N.Y., said he assumed Kennedy "might be ready to declare or ask the Congress to declare a partial mobilization of American armed strength" to demonstrate to the Soviets "we don't intend to back down in Berlin."

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., said the chief executive should "beef up our forces in Berlin and West Germany" to put "real teeth" into U.S. determination to protect West Berlin.

The House has at least 22 pending.

Farmer Hopes Taxpayer Angry

NEW YORK (AP)—William T. Smith, operator of a 1,200-acre dairy and poultry farm in south Central New York state, hopes taxpayers will grow angry about his new $6,100 Cadillac.

He bought the car out of the $6,500 the Department of Agriculture sent him for keeping land out of production. Smith has a large sign on his car which says: "We bought this car with money we received for not growing corn."

Shotgun Blast Snuffs Life Of Novelist Hemingway, 61

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP)—Novelist Ernest Hemingway, 61, a literary giant who ranked with the greatest of his age, died of a shotgun blast in the head Sunday.

His wife, Mary, awakened by the shot, found the body clad in pajamas just off the living room of their secluded retreat house.

She called a doctor although death apparently was instantaneous.

"Mr. Hemingway accidentally killed himself while cleaning a gun this morning at 7:30 a.m.," she said in a brief statement read to reporters by a family friend. She was taken to a hospital and given a sedative.

Coroner Ray McGoldrick said it was "a self-inflicted wound that could have been accidental or otherwise. He said no inquest is planned unless something new develops."

Sheriff Frank Hewitt said authorities planned to talk with Mrs. Hemingway if a doctor permits.

Hemingway's violent death shocked the literary world. There were expressions of profound regret from President Kennedy to his obscure neighbors in Idaho.

To Hemingway, this was home—a quiet retreat far from the turbulent world of "Farewell to Arms," "Across the River and Into the Trees," "For Whom the Bell Tolls."

It was here that he came to hunt, relax and work. To local citizens he was as well known as the artful bearded hunter as the Nobel and Pulitzer prize winner, the author of the brilliant "Old Man and the Sea."

It was here that he worked on a new major novel, and a book of reminiscences of his youth. A

State's Solons Still Face Big List of Bills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A formidable list of 142 bills ready for floor action awaits state senators when they return to their desks Wednesday.

The House has at least 22 pending.

That doesn't count bills and resolutions which will be recommended out of committee. There are a number.

Nor, in the Senate's case, does it count the $119.8 million additions and betterments (A & B) bill for public buildings, which has not been acted upon by the House.

Just like a great many of the 1,710 bills introduced this session, many of these pending measures don't stand a chance. But there are enough to make some lawmakers wonder if the 104th General Assembly can wind up working sessions this week.

Legislators will get a late start because of the Fourth of July holiday, anyway. As soon as they return Wednesday, a conference committee of three senators and three representatives will set about the task of reconciling the Senate and House versions of the $2 billion appropriations bill.

Senators also must take up a House-approved school subsidy bill calling for $466 million for the foundation program, and a $974,984 sundry claims bill.

But some of the people he knew around here thought "papa"—as friends called him—seemed a bit distressed and traced it to the recent cancer death of actor Gary Cooper, his close friend and local hunting companion.

"They're both in the barn now," Mrs. Cooper commented when she heard of the death. Hemingway had told Cooper he wasn't feeling well, and the late actor replied: "I bet I'll beat you to the barn. Cooper died in May."

City, County Set To Celebrate 4th

No community-wide organized celebration is planned in Circleville this year to commemorate Independence Day.

Instead, many private festivities of varying magnitude are on tap for the mid-summer holiday. Brilliant blue skies and balmy temperatures are expected to lure many city and county residents to parks and recreation centers throughout the area.

The day will be marked by an almost total suspension of local business activity as employers and employees alike honor our nation's birth.

Service enterprises such as gas stations and restaurants will be open it was indicated, to assist the hundreds of Pickaway Countians expected to take to the road during the Fourth.

ACTIVITY will reach a peak at Ted Lewis Park where baseball games will vie with the swimming pool and trampoline and miniature golf center for attention.

In Ashville, the annual Fourth of July extravaganza will carry on at full throttle, with spectators and participants coming from all sections of the Central Ohio region.

Yellowbud, on the Pickaway-Ross County line, also has scheduled special events for the celebration.

A serious note was injected into the merry-making by local law-enforcement officers. Sheriff Walton W. Spangler, Police Chief Robert Temple and state highway patrol authorities joined to urge "A safe and sane" Fourth.

They added that officers will be out "in force" during the holiday in an effort to curb accidents.

All government offices will close tomorrow.

2 Churches Ready To Sign Merger Pact

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—They've finally made it.

After 21 years of negotiations, referendums, lawsuits, delays and other preliminaries, representatives of two branches of American Protestantism met today to seal their historic merger.

"We've reached the climax of our years of planning," said the Rev. George C. Kirk, a Congregational Christian pastor of Muskegon, Mich.

The new church, whose constitution is to be declared in force here Tuesday, is the United Church of Christ.

It combines Congregational Christian churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church, the first church merger in the United States to unite denominations of different structure and origin.

"The spirit of unity here is beyond anything that has preceded it," Dr. Kirk said. "All the debates and difficulties have faded."

Approximately 750 delegates and visitors gathered for opening of the new church's general synod with the Rev. Dr. Abraham Akaka, of Honolulu, leading a special service of prayer for its future.

Ohio Marking Death-Every 4 Hours on Road

Safety Experts Issue
Fresh Appeal for Motorist Caution

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Traffic deaths of the nation's highways so far in the Independence Day holiday are running ahead of estimates by safety experts.

At about noon, the national toll stood at 304 dead in traffic, plus 31 in boating, 105 by drowning and 62 miscellaneous for a total of 502.

The traffic death toll since the start of the count at 6 p.m. Friday was approximately 25 per cent higher than estimates made by the National Safety Council. The council had estimated that 450 persons might be killed in highway accidents during the 102-hour period which ends at midnight Tuesday.

If the death rate during the first half of the period continues, a council official said, the final toll could pass 550, topping the record toll of 491 during the four-day Fourth of July holiday in 1950.

"This holiday weekend is a period of extra danger," said George C. Stewart, council executive vice president. "Extra care must be exerted to meet this extra danger. We ask all drivers to take it easy, to obey the laws and to use common sense and good judgment in their driving."

The traffic death pattern in Ohio appears to be following the national trend with one killed every four hours.

That would give Ohio a 102-hour holiday period traffic toll of 25, exactly the number forecasted by the Department of Highway Safety.

The latest count by the Associated Press showed that at least 17 persons met death on the state's streets and roads since 6 p.m. Friday. Four of them died Sunday.

In addition, warm weather has been a factor in turning out water sport fans, at least seven of whom drowned in swimming or non-boating type accidents. Four of those drownings occurred Sunday.

Boating has claimed one life. Five miscellaneous deaths also have been recorded. Three of them involved electrocutions, and two victims were hit by trains.

For comparative purposes, the AP made a check over a similar, but non-holiday, 44-day period two weekends ago. That survey showed 15 traffic deaths, 4 boating fatalities, 6 drownings not involving boats and 7 miscellaneous deaths in Ohio.

In 1957, the last time a 4-day Fourth of July weekend was observed, 31 persons were killed in Ohio traffic accidents.

Since 1956 when the Department of Highway Safety started keeping such records, the highest Ohio traffic toll for this holiday was the 34 recorded last year over a 3-day period.

Most Stores Open All Day Wednesday

Most retail stores in Circleville will be open all day Wednesday, according to the local Retail Merchants Committee.

The majority of local firms plan to close tomorrow in observance of the July 4 holiday. This will prompt merchants to keep their doors open all day Wednesday instead of closing at noon as usual.

The House has at least 22 pending.

That doesn't count bills and resolutions which will be recommended out of committee. There are a number.

Nor, in the Senate's case, does it count the $119.8 million additions and betterments (A & B) bill for public buildings, which has not been acted upon by the House.

Just like a great many of the 1,710 bills introduced this session, many of these pending measures don't stand a chance. But there are enough to make some lawmakers wonder if the 104th General Assembly can wind up working sessions this week.

Legislators will get a late start because of the Fourth of July holiday, anyway. As soon as they return Wednesday, a conference committee of three senators and three representatives will set about the task of reconciling the Senate and House versions of the $2 billion appropriations bill.

Senators also must take up a House-approved school subsidy bill calling for $466 million for the foundation program, and a $974,984 sundry claims bill.

No Profit on This Sale

AMSTERDAM, N.Y. (AP)—This Mohawk Valley community bought a small plot of land for $500 in 1863. The plot was sold by the city recently for $500.

close friend said Hemingway was serious when he boasted he had "a big novel, all about the land, the sea and the air stashed away in a Cuban bank as 'insurance.'"

It will be here that they lay Ernest Hemingway to rest in private funeral services tentatively set for Friday.

But some of the people he knew around here thought "papa"—as friends called him—seemed a bit distressed and traced it to the recent cancer death of actor Gary Cooper, his close friend and local hunting companion.

"They're both in the barn now, Mrs. Cooper commented when she heard of the death. Hemingway had told Cooper he wasn't feeling well, and the late actor replied: "I bet I'll beat you to the barn. Cooper died in May.

City, County Set To Celebrate 4th

No community-wide organized celebration is planned in Circleville this year to commemorate Independence Day.

Instead, many private festivities of varying magnitude are on tap for the mid-summer holiday. Brilliant blue skies and balmy temperatures are expected to lure many city and county residents to parks and recreation centers throughout the area.

The day will be marked by an almost total suspension of local business activity as employers and employees alike honor our nation's birth.

Service enterprises such as gas stations and restaurants will be open it was indicated, to assist the hundreds of Pickaway Countians expected to take to the road during the Fourth.

ACTIVITY will reach a peak at Ted Lewis Park where baseball games will vie with the swimming pool and trampoline and miniature golf center for attention.

In Ashville, the annual Fourth of July extravaganza will carry on at full throttle, with spectators and participants coming from all sections of the Central Ohio region.

Yellowbud, on the Pickaway-Ross County line, also has scheduled special events for the celebration.

A serious note was injected into the merry-making by local law-enforcement officers. Sheriff Walton W. Spangler, Police Chief Robert Temple and state highway patrol authorities joined to urge "A safe and sane" Fourth.

They added that officers will be out "in force" during the holiday in an effort to curb accidents.

All government offices will close tomorrow.

2 Churches Ready To Sign Merger Pact

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—They've finally made it.

After 21 years of negotiations, referendums, lawsuits, delays and other preliminaries, representatives of two branches of American Protestantism met today to seal their historic merger.

"We've reached the climax of our years of planning," said the Rev. George C. Kirk, a Congregational Christian pastor of Muskegon, Mich.

The new church, whose constitution is to be declared in force here Tuesday, is the United Church of Christ.

It combines Congregational Christian churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church, the first church merger in the United States to unite denominations of different structure and origin.

"The spirit of unity here is beyond anything that has preceded it," Dr. Kirk said. "All the debates and difficulties have faded."

Approximately 750 delegates and visitors gathered for opening of the new church's general synod with the Rev. Dr. Abraham Akaka, of Honolulu, leading a special service of prayer for its future.

Ohio Marking Death Every 4 Hours on Road

Safety Experts Issue Fresh Appeal for Motorist Caution

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic deaths of the nation's highways so far in the Independence Day holiday are running ahead of estimates by safety experts.

At about noon, the national toll stood at 304 dead in traffic, plus 31 in boating, 105 by drowning and 62 miscellaneous for a total of 502.

The traffic death toll since the start of the count at 6 p. m. Friday was approximately 25 per cent higher than estimates made by the National Safety Council.

The council had estimated that 450 persons might be killed in highway accidents during the 102-hour period which ends at midnight Tuesday.

If the death rate during the first half of the period continues, a council official said, the final toll could pass 550, topping the record toll of 491 during the four-day Fourth of July holiday in 1950.

"This holiday weekend is a period of extra danger," said George C. Stewart, council executive vice president. "Extra care must be exerted to meet this extra danger. We ask all drivers to take it easy, to obey the laws and to use common sense and good judgment in their driving."

The traffic death pattern in Ohio appears to be following the national trend with one killed every four hours.

That would give Ohio a 102-hour holiday period traffic toll of 26, exactly the number forecasted by the Department of Highway Safety.

The latest count by the Associated Press showed that at least 17 persons met death on the state's streets and roads since 6 p. m. Friday. Four of them died Sunday.

In addition, warm weather has been a factor in turning out water sport fans, at least seven of whom drowned in swimming or non-boating type accidents. Four of those drownings occurred Sunday.

Boating has claimed one life. Five miscellaneous deaths also have been recorded. Three of them involved electrocutions, and two victims were hit by trains.

For comparative purposes, the AP made a check over a similar, but non-holiday, 44-day period two weekends ago. That survey showed 15 traffic deaths, 4 boat-drowning fatalities, 6 drownings not involving boats and 7 miscellaneous deaths in Ohio.

In 1957, the last time a 4-day Fourth of July weekend was observed, 31 persons were killed in Ohio traffic accidents.

Since 1956 when the Department of Highway Safety started keeping such records, the highest Ohio traffic toll for this holiday was the 34 recorded last year over a 3-day period.

Most Stores Open All Day Wednesday

Most retail stores in Circleville will be open all day Wednesday, according to the local Retail Merchants Committee.

The majority of local firms plan to close tomorrow in observance of the July 4 holiday. This will prompt merchants to keep their doors open all day Wednesday instead of closing at noon as usual.

Federal Injunction Hinted Coming in Maritime Strike

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—The Cape Cod White House indicated today that Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg has recommended that President Kennedy invoke a Taft-Hartley Law injunction to halt the maritime strike.

Newsman were told that Goldberg and Kennedy began conferring on the shipping strike at 9:50 a.m. on the patio of the President's summer home here.

A White House announcement added merely:

"It appears that Secretary Goldberg would recommend the use of the Taft-Hartley Law."

Goldberg brought with him a report from the fact-finding board appointed by Kennedy to determine whether the strike, now in its 18th day, imperils the national health and safety.

Goldberg flew to the Cape Sunday night after a conference at Newark, N.J., with chairman David L. Cole and other members of the fact-finding board. Kennedy appointed a week ago.

Kennedy set up the board as the first step in machinery provided by the Taft-Hartley Act to stop the strike for an 80-day cooling off period.

The next step would be to instruct his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to seek a court injunction requiring the maritime workers to man the country's merchant fleet once again.

Asst. Atty. Gen. William Orrick Jr. was understood to be standing by in New York City to file the government's petition for an injunction, if need be.

Nearly half of the American merchant marine fleet of about 1,000 passenger ships, freighters and tankers are free to sail despite the continuing strike.

Agreements were signed Sunday with South Atlantic port and Gulf Coast companies with 250 ships. They completed signing with four of the five striking unions, and thus obtained all the types of officers and crewmen required to sail.

Philippines Roar Welcome To MacArthur

MANILA (AP)—General of the Army Douglas MacArthur came back to the Philippines today after 15 years and got a tumultuous welcome from the young Asian nation that reveres him as its liberator and defender.

It was another triumphant return for the 81-year-old soldier who led the liberating American forces against the Japanese during the last war to avenge the bitter Filipino-American defeat he suffered at Corregidor and Bataan.

MacArthur arrived at Manila International Airport on a special U.S. military jet provided by President Kennedy for a 10-day sentimental journey to the Philippines, which he has "known so long and loved so well."

The Philippine government brushed protocol aside to give MacArthur a welcome usually reserved for chiefs of state. Sharing it with him were his wife; Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, a longtime aide, and the Philippine ambassador to the United States, Carlos P. Romulo, and his wife.

President and Mrs. Carlos P. Garcia were at the airport to welcome the illustrious old soldier. The country's top officials and members of the foreign diplomatic corps also were on hand. Full military honors were given MacArthur, who once commanded the Philippine army.

MacArthur arrived at Manila International Airport on a special U.S. military jet provided by President Kennedy for a 10-day sentimental journey to the Philippines, which he has "known so long and loved so well."

The Philippine government brushed protocol aside to give MacArthur a welcome usually reserved for chiefs of state. Sharing it with him were his wife; Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, a longtime aide, and the Philippine ambassador to the United States, Carlos P. Romulo, and his wife.

President and Mrs. Carlos P. Garcia were at the airport to welcome the illustrious old soldier. The country's top officials and members of the foreign diplomatic corps also were on hand.

Full military honors were given MacArthur, who once commanded the Philippine army.

Fifth of Income

Now Goes for Food

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio State University extension specialist says Americans are spending a smaller part of their income for food than ever before—about 20 per cent.

The specialist in consumer food marketing, Gene Futrell, said by comparison the Japanese spend about 40 per cent of their income for food and the Russians about 55 per cent.

Futrell said that while spending for food increased from an average of 128 a person in 1948 to $394 last year, average disposable incomes per person rose from $1,291 to $1,969, an increase of 53 per cent.

Shotgun Blast Snuffs Life Of Hemingway

Hemingway, son of a physician, was born in Oak Park, Ill., July 21, 1899, married four times and had three sons. His father, Dr. Clarence E. Hemingway, also suffered from high blood pressure and diabetes. He was found dead of a gun wound at his Oak Park home in 1928.

Dr. Carlos Baker of Princeton, a Hemingway scholar, said the father killed himself because of ill health.

Ernest wrote him from Mayo's this spring and said he was suffering from incipient diabetes, kept under control by diet.

"He wrote that his weight had reduced from 220 to 175 pounds and that doctors told him if he kept his weight down he had a good chance of coming back strong," Dr. Baker said.

Dr. Baker said a Hemingway shirt story, "Fathers and Sons" in which the son is troubled by the father's suicide, was autobiographical.

President Kennedy, a Pulitzer Prize winner himself, said of Hemingway:

"Few Americans had a greater impact on the emotions and attitudes of the American people than Ernest Hemingway. From his first emergence as one of the bright literary stars in Paris during the 20s — as a chronicler of the 'lost generation' which he was to immortalize — he almost single handedly transformed the literature and the ways of thought of men and women in every country in the world."

Hemingway was a rugged outdoorsman even in his youth. After high school Hemingway became a cub reporter for the Kansas City Star, but left soon to become an ambulance driver on the Italian front in World War I.

"A Farewell to Arms," in which Cooper starred when it was made into a movie, was based partially on his war experiences. It was with this novel in 1929 that Hemingway won world renown.

In the Paris of the 1920s, Hemingway became a disciple of Gertrude Stein, who once called him "the lost generation." It was on this theme that Hemingway built his early reputation with his novel, "The Sun Also Rises," in 1926.

Wars always fascinated Hemingway. He entered enthusiastically into the Spanish civil war on the loyalist side.

From this came his brilliant and angry novel, "For Whom the Bell Tolls." Cooper also starred in a movie version of this book.

When World War II broke out, he was again at the front, spending weeks at the regimental headquarters of Col. Charles T. Lanham, later a major general commanding the First Division in Germany. This too resulted in a novel, "Across the River and Into the Trees." Gen. Lanham remembered Hemingway as "enormously brave" through the most dangerous battles.

Hemingway had homes here and in Cuba, where he lived alternately in recent years and wrote "The Old Man and the Sea", which won him a Pulitzer Prize in 1953.

Hemingway lived as lusty a life as any of his fictional characters. When his Nobel Prize was announced in 1954, Hemingway was in a hospital, recovering from an injury he received when his plane crashed on a big game hunting trip in Africa.

A source close to the Royal Swedish Academy of Literature said then the Nobel Prize authorities believed Hemingway would receive the award eventually and "we might as well give it to him now before he kills himself."

Okay Misspelling

GUTTENBERG, Iowa (AP) — Residents once again have decided to leave the extra "T" in the community's name, even though the German printing inventor for whom it is named spelled it Gutenberg.

The story is that a draftsman, a century ago, misspelled the name in drawing the original town plat. Those who advocated the change cited tradition and the possible distinction of being the only town in the world to honor the printer. Opponents said letterheads — and habits — would have to be changed.

The special election, paid for by the Gutenberg Rotary Club, resulted in a 208-166 vote against the change. In 1949, the proposal was defeated 127-88.

Did Sam Rayburn Win Battle, but Lose Rules War?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Democrats who helped "pack" the House Rules Committee last January to break the control of a conservative coalition are beginning to wonder if they made a mistake.

On the basis of committee statistics, they have good reason to wonder.

The "packing"—ordered by a 217-212 vote of the House—increased the committee membership from eight Democrats and four Republicans to 10 Democrats and five Republicans. It was engineered by Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., with the support of the Kennedy administration. Its purpose was to prevent the committee from bottling up legislation and denying the House a chance to vote on it.

After the increase, voting control of the committee was held by eight Democrats friendly to Rayburn and the Kennedy administration. Previously, it was exercised by two Democrats, Chairman Howard W. Smith of Virginia and William M. Colmer of Mississippi, along with the four Republicans. Between them they had enough votes to beat any motion to send legislation to the floor. Such a motion loses on a tie vote.

Smith, who headed the old conservative coalition and fought the increase, has compiled some statistics indicating that the committee isn't performing according to Rayburn plans.

During the first six months of the present session, Smith's statistics show, the committee has sent to the House for a vote 39 bills and resolutions. During the first six months of the opening session of the last Congress, the coalition-controlled committee cleared 55 bills and resolutions for House action.

"We were much more fruitful before we were packed," Smith told a reporter.

Biggest bills now bottled up in the committee deal with assistance to schools, both public and private. One of them, a general public school assistance measure, ranks high on Kennedy's program. It may never get out of the committee because the Democrats nominally in voting control have split.

Two of the liberal Democrats, both Catholics, have refused to clear a public school bill until the committee approves a bill to help private and parochial schools. Three Southern Democrats who normally follow Rayburn's wishes have indicated they won't approve the parochial aid bill. And the conservative coalition of five Republicans and two Southern Democrats doesn't want any bill.

Had the committee not been packed, Smith said, a public-school-aid bill "would be law now."

Smith recalled that when the rules fight was nearing a climax last January, he proposed a compromise by which he agreed to clear for House action five major bills on the Kennedy program, if the size of the committee were not increased.

Rayburn's forces rejected the offer and insisted on assurance from Smith that he would clear all Kennedy bills. Smith turned down the counteroffer, and the committee was enlarged. The public-school bill was one of the five involved in Smith's original compromise offer.

CCA Waste Material Settles Dust on Township Roadways

Cooperation between several Pickaway County Townships and a local industry has resulted in the settling of a lot of dust.

Involved in the bit of teamwork is the local Container Corporation plant and trustees from Monroe, Washington, Scioto and Darby Townships. Their joint effort has produced a means of controlling the heavy dust which prevails on most gravel roads during warm dry months.

The method used has been tested, tried and found to be most satisfactory. The result has been the rapid disappearance of dust on gravel roads in the four townships.

The dust control method has been made possible through the use of a liquid waste material stemming from the production of paper at the Container Corporation of America plant. Application of the material has brought desired results, according to plant officials and township trustees.

THE material, known as "road binder", has been sprayed on several roads in the four townships and most rural residents in the areas agree the effort has been worthwhile.

In addition to curbing the dust, most of the roads where the binder has been applied have started to set up in a hard pavement-like form.

Trustees of the four townships pushed the plan after CCA offered them the waste material at no cost. The township officials met with Container personnel to set up operation plans. Container handed over its large tank trailer for spraying at a cost of only $1 per year. The trustees agreed to lease a tractor unit from the local Kenney Hannan Auto agency to complete the mobile assembly. The various townships also pay for the gasoline used by the tractor. James Hedges of the Orient community was employed to operate the spray unit.

Each township has agreed to pay Hedges and other operational costs for the specific work done in its area. CCA spokesmen said this system is working out as planned.

ROBERT MOON, one of the Container officials coordinating the project, said about 20 to 25,000 gallons of the waste material is accumulated at the plant each day. He said on some days a large amount of the waste is hailed away for use on the roads while the remainder is disposed of through regular sewage means.

The waste is drained from the huge rotaries at Container in which wood is cooked and processed. It has a deep black color similar to tar.

Moon said the material is not overly sticky and that it is soluble in water. He noted that it can be removed from cars by regular washing.

The Container spokesman explained that several applications of the material on roads give the best results. He said the roads then start to "build up" once cars begin passing over them.

According to Moon and the township trustees, the spraying project is mutual benefiting. The townships have dust-free roads at little cost and Container is able to dispose of a large quantity of its waste material without dumping it into the Scioto River as sewage.

Use of the road binder was tested here last year in the way of early planning. This year the project is in full operation, with Hedges spraying the county roads each day weather permits.

Highway Engineer's Engineer Quits after 52 Years on Job

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Back in the days when waterbound macadam was a first-class paving technique, Robert N. Waid, a Pennsylvania farm boy, was working his way through Ohio State University's engineering college—milking cows and waiting table.

Now, 52 years and thousands of miles of brick, concrete and asphalt highways later, Robert N. Waid, the engineer's engineer, is retiring.

Director of the Ohio Department of Highways under Myers Y. Cooper, 1929-31, Waid ends his engineering career as the executive secretary of the state licensing board for engineers and surveyors.

Waid's connection with Ohio's highway system was an intimate experience for more than three decades.

He was only four years out of school when he was named project engineer on Ohio's first federal-aid highway construction job—rehabilitating the Old National Road from Reynoldsburg to Bridgeport.

That was in 1913 and continued to 1917. Waid recalls:

"It was rebuilt in three stages—of asphalt from Reynoldsburg to Hebron; concrete from Hebron to New Concord, and brick from New Concord to Bridgeport.

Waid said counties through which the National Road ran floated bond issues to pay their share, matched by federal money.

By the time he was director of highways, brick was falling behind as a paving material, and concrete and asphalt had become more common.

"The weakest part of highway building when I began was the roadbed," he said. "Today highway construction is superior in many ways but chiefly in the sub grade and drainage.

Highway costs are different today too. Back when Waid began, Ohio highways were going down at anywhere from $10,000 to $15,000 a mile for 10-foot to 14-foot wide brick and concrete.

Fifty years later, for a 24-foot wide pavement of concrete in open country the per-mile cost runs around $1 million—and on limited-access highways through cities as much as $10 million a mile.

Although he has spent the last 20 years in licensing engineers and surveyors, Waid still has an interest in highway construction and traffic problems. He said:

"I'd like to see speeds decreased. We permit speeds today that mean death if there's a collision. And although I know some youngsters are good drivers, I'd rather see the permissible age raised from 16 to 18 years of age."

As to future highways, Waid said:

"The pattern is already set, as I see it—trunk-line highways to carry traffic long distances with speed and safety, limited access with overhead crossings—and long way from narrow roads of yesterday."

Did Sam Rayburn Win Battle, but Lose Rules War?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Democrats who helped "pack" the House Rules Committee last January to break the control of a conservative coalition are beginning to wonder if they made a mistake.

On the basis of committee statistics, they have good reason to wonder.

The "packing"—ordered by a 217-212 vote of the House—increased the committee membership from eight Democrats and four Republicans to 10 Democrats and five Republicans. It was engineered by Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., with the support of the Kennedy administration. Its purpose was to prevent the committee from bottling up legislation and denying the House a chance to vote on it.

After the increase, voting control of the committee was held by eight Democrats friendly to Rayburn and the Kennedy administration. Previously, it was exercised by two Democrats, Chairman Howard W. Such a motion loses on a tie vote.

Smith, who headed the old conservative coalition and fought the increase, has compiled some statistics indicating that the committee isn't performing according to Rayburn's plans.

During the first six months of the present session, Smith's statistics show, the committee has sent to the House for a vote 39 bills and resolutions. During the first six months of the opening session of the last Congress, the coalition-controlled committee cleared 55 bills and resolutions for House action.

"We were much more fruitful before we were packed," Smith told a reporter.

Biggest bills now bottled up in the committee deal with assistance to schools, both public and private. One of them, a general public school assistance measure, ranks high on Kennedy's program. It may never get out of the committee because the Democrats nominally in voting control have split.

Two of the liberal Democrats, both Catholics, have refused to clear a public school bill until the committee approves a bill to help private and parochial schools. Three Southern Democrats who normally follow Rayburn's wishes have indicated they won't approve the parochial aid bill. And the conservative coalition of five Republicans and two Southern Democrats doesn't want any bill.

Had the committee not been packed, Smith said, a public-school-aid bill "would be law now."

Smith recalled that when the rules fight was nearing a climax last January, he proposed a compromise by which he agreed to clear for House action five major bills on the Kennedy program, if the size of the committee were not increased.

Rayburn's forces rejected the offer and insisted on assurance from Smith that he would clear all Kennedy bills. Smith turned down the counteroffer, and the committee was enlarged. The public-school bill was one of the five involved in Smith's original compromise offer.

Shotgun Blast Snuffs Life Of Hemingway

Hemingway, son of a physician, was born in Oak Park, Ill., July 21, 1899, married four times and had three sons. His father, Dr. Clarence E. Hemingway, also suffered from high blood pressure and diabetes. He was found dead of a gun wound at his Oak Park home in 1928.

Dr. Carlos Baker of Princeton, a Hemingway scholar, said the father killed himself because of ill health.

Ernest wrote him from Mayo's this spring and said he was suffering from incipient diabetes, kept under control by diet.

"He wrote that his weight had reduced from 220 to 175 pounds and that doctors told him if he kept his weight down he had a good chance of coming back strong," Dr. Baker said.

Dr. Baker said a Hemingway shirt story, "Fathers and Sons" in which the son is troubled by the father's suicide, was autobiographical.

President Kennedy, a Pulitzer Prize winner himself, said of Hemingway:

"Few Americans had a greater impact on the emotions and attitudes of the American people than Ernest Hemingway. From his first emergence as one of the bright literary stars in Paris during the 20s — as a chronicler of the 'lost generation' which he was to immortalize — he almost single handedly transformed the literature and the ways of thought of men and women in every country in the world."

Hemingway was a rugged outdoorsman even in his youth. After high school Hemingway became a cub reporter for the Kansas City Star, but left soon to become an ambulance driver on the Italian front in World War I.

"A Farewell to Arms," in which Cooper starred when it was made into a movie, was based partially on his war experiences. It was with this novel in 1929 that Hemingway won world renown.

In the Paris of the 1920s, Hemingway became a disciple of Gertrude Stein, who once called him "the lost generation." It was on this theme that Hemingway built his early reputation with his novel, "The Sun Also Rises," in 1926.

Wars always fascinated Hemingway. He entered enthusiastically into the Spanish civil war on the loyalist side.

From this came his brilliant and angry novel, "For Whom the Bell Tolls." Cooper also starred in a movie version of this book.

When World War II broke out, he was again at the front, spending weeks at the regimental headquarters of Col. Charles T. Lanham, later a major general commanding the First Division in Germany. This too resulted in a novel, "Across the River and Into the Trees." Gen. Lanham remembered Hemingway as "enormously brave" through the most dangerous battles.

Hemingway had homes here and in Cuba, where he lived alternately in recent years and wrote "The Old Man and the Sea," which won him a Pulitzer Prize in 1953.

Hemingway lived as lusty a life as any of his fictional characters. When his Nobel Prize was announced in 1954, Hemingway was in a hospital, recovering from an injury he received when his plane crashed on a big game hunting trip in Africa.

A source close to the Royal Swedish Academy of Literature said then the Nobel Prize authorities believed Hemingway would receive the award eventually and "we might as well give it to him now before he kills himself."

Okay Misspelling

GUTTENBERG, Iowa (AP) — Residents once again have decided to leave the extra "T" in the community's name, even though the German printing inventor for whom it is named spelled it Gutenberg.

The story is that a draftsman, a century ago, misspelled the name in drawing the original town plat. Those who advocated the change cited tradition and the possible distinction of being the only town in the world to honor the printer. Opponents said letterheads — and habits — would have to be changed.

The special election, paid for by the Gutenberg Rotary Club, resulted in a 208-166 vote against the change. In 1949, the proposal was defeated 127-88.

Each Has His Favorite

Everyone has his favorite berry and the proper test of a favorite is the vivid quality of the memories that it evokes. Thus did Henry Thoreau recall his at the height of the raspberry season in the latter summer of the year 1857 — a low scarlet mountain, garnishing the head of the table in a dish two feet across.

Then also does one recall from out of the dim depths of childhood in the long lost day when one was seen but not heard, that curious grating sound as mature members of the family solemnly chomped them down. And the places where they grew!

Why is it that they always seemed sweetest when picked from the bushes that grew in the thickest of thickets where the outside drain from the kitchen sink poured out on the open ground? Unsatisfactory yes, but those raspberries were large, firm, pink, and so utterly delectable and succulent that one could never pick a berry basket full of them because he stopped to eat so many.

But what was even better was on a camping trip if you were handy to burnt land or to the clearing near an old camp, to gather a black hat full of wild scarlet raspberries in less than jig time. Or to step out into your own raspberry patch where they gleamed in red clusters and pick yourself a bowl full before breakfast.

The Glory of July Fourth

One hundred and eighty-five years ago the Declaration was enunciated in Philadelphia which led to a nation of unexampled political freedom and material prosperity.

Our progenitors had broken free of the Old World to found here a system based on the consent of the governed.

Casting up accounts 185 years later, it can be said with considerable truthfulness that the American people have carried on rather well in the task laid down for them by the founding fathers. They have given without stint their lives and fortunes to defend the Republic against outside encroachments.

Now, literally, this nation is in a death struggle with the antithesis of our governmental concept. The rival ideology is paraded before the world as "people's democracies" when the function of the subject peoples is only to obey their masters.

Many of these peoples would break free if they could. Other through ignorance of the benefits of self-government may be sucked into the awful maw of despair and desolation.

Out inspiring example nearly two centuries ago helped to lead the world toward enlightenment. We have since had many imitators. But communist propaganda has begun to blur our image.

On this Fourth of July it is up to us as Americans more than ever before, by voice and precept, to make those "certain unalienable rights" which the founding fathers stated so eloquently seem desirable to men everywhere.

Political Battle by Amateurs

By George Sokolsky

New York City politics often affect the fortunes of the parties nationally.

The present tumult in the Democratic Party is aimed at destroying the prospects of Governor Nelson Rockefeller as a candidate for the Presidency. It is a political battle waged by amateurs who do not grasp the peculiar composition of New York's population.

The basic fault in New York City politics is that a large part of the population has very little interest in what happens here. Thus, the Democrats have generally been elected to municipal office. If one excludes Fiorello La Guardia who was a man of many parties and many personalities, no Republican has been elected Mayor since 1914 and before that none since 1902.

The Democrats must be in very bad shape; their conduct must be so outrageous as to evoke great civic anger before they are defeated.

Men are not elected to the office of Mayor because they are able. They are usually elected because of personal popularity, or because they have made a combination of groups, or because they belong to an important ethnological element. The parties portion out offices on strictly ethnological lines: each ticket must have an Irish Catholic, a Jew, an Italian and a Negro. Otherwise the party is regarded as discriminating and will be opposed by those who get excited about discrimination. This is the way things stand and nobody can make a change.

Mayor Robert Wagner, the incumbent, who has served two terms and who has generally been regarded as an unbeatable candidate, has managed to get himself into a quarrel with the powerful Democratic leaders who are mindful to repudiate him now that he has rejected them. This is partly due to the political activities of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and former Senator Herbert Lehman and possibly the Kennedys who want to control New York City so that they might more successfully defeat Governor Nelson Rockefeller in 1962.

A peculiarity in this situation is the Liberal Party. This Party is made up of labor union personalities and certain intellectuals. It broke off from the American Labor Party which President Roosevelt had organized to make it possible for Fiorello La Guardia to pass from the Republican Party to the New Deal.

The Liberal Party is Fabian Socialist, anti-Communist but also not in favor of the social or economic status quo. It polls between 300,000 and 400,000 votes and therefore cannot be ignored in a mayoralty election. Congressman Charles Buckley, the Democratic leader of the Bronx, and a powerful figure in Democratic politics, was the first leader to object to the Liberal Party. Bronx candidates are supposed not to accept Liberal Party endorsements.

Whereas Carmine De Sapio, the Democratic National Committeeman was very slow in coming to the support of John Kennedy at the Democratic Convention, his choice being Senator Stuart Symington which turned out to be an error of judgement. Charles Buckley was the first supporter of Kennedy in the New York area and therefore has expected that he would be consulted by the Kennedy Administration concerning New York affairs.

Whether the Democrats can survive this schism is indeed doubtful. The Republicans have nominated Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz as Mayor. Lefkowitz is a popular personality and has the warm support of Governor Nelson Rockefeller which could mean that the usually poverty-stricken Republican Party might have a sizeable campaign fund.

A week or so ago, one felt that the Democrats would forget their quarrel and would kiss and make up. At this moment it looks as though powerful forces in the Democratic Party in New York City are ready to throw the election. They could do this by running a third party, anti-Wagner, anti-Reform and put it all together, anti-Kennedy.

If Lefkowitz should be elected Mayor, the Democratic organization would be left entirely without patronage, getting none from Washington or Albany or City Hall. The Democratic Party in New York City lives on patronage. It has done very well over the past 30 years. The Republicans, on the other hand, have enjoyed little patronage and are accustomed to political poverty. Should the Democrats be defeated in New York City in 1961, they could easily lose New York in 1962 and thus Nelson Rockefeller would be the Republican candidate for President in 1964.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—New equipment and new methods of cargo handling are the hope of the nation's hard pressed airlines to capture new freight markets.

They talk in terms of jets and swing tails and containers and pallets—and of sales drives tailored to shippers' specific needs.

Two all cargo airlines, Flying Tiger and Seaboard World, are putting new turboprop swing tail airfreighters through shake down cruises.

Passenger lines with suddenly multiplied cargo capacity in their new and expensive jets are pushing hard for needed new business.

Also they are converting to freighters their big piston liners superseded by the jets. American, for example, has converted 15 DC7s, TWA 12 Super Constellations. Pan AM's North Atlantic freight capacity this year will be twice that of last.

Cargo revenues have increased fairly steadily for several months for the lines as a whole. But the big break is ahead—they hope. For they concede that to tap the really big market, rates must come down. That means lower costs.

Already there has been some rate cutting. New rates go into effect for cross Atlantic freight September 1. Some commodity and tonnage rate cuts are announced between certain cities on coast to coast flights in domestic service.

Flying Tiger hopes that the 10 turboprops it is getting from Canadian, Canadian subsidiary of General Dynamics, will bring its operating costs down 40 per cent, which could be translated into lower rates. The planes have added speed and tonnage mile capacity and a tail that swings to one side which makes for less expensive loading from the rear with less time lost on the ground.

Robert W. Prescott, Flying Tiger president, says he hopes eventually to operate the planes at a cost per ton mile of less than 4 cents.

Seaboard World Airlines is getting five Canadairs, each capable of carrying up to 65,000 pounds of freight nonstop across the Atlantic at an average of 400 m.p.h. It hopes to cut its ton-mile cost almost in half.

In the cargo holds of its new jets, and in its converted DC7s, American Airlines is carrying an increasing volume of freight says E.C. Taylor, vice president for Cargo Sales and Services. "In May American flew 16 per cent more revenue cargo ton miles than in May 1960, and in the first half of June the gain was 22 per cent over the like period a year ago."

TWA now has airfreighters on a five a week schedule to Europe and on regular non stop flights between the East and West coasts at home. Vice President Samuel C. Dunlap says ton miles on the international routes set a record in April, up 37 per cent from the previous year. In May the domestic ton miles flown topped a year ago by 41 per cent.

Pan American World Airways is adopting a system of freight pallets and rollers embedded in the floors of their planes. It reports loading time will be cut to less than a third of the former time.

All these processes aim at eventual rate cutting before really large scale expansion of airfreight can become a reality. But even with the present rates the airlines have some talking points in competition with other forms of transportation. They claim less loss and damage, cheaper crating, and the chance for manufacturers to cut their inventory requirements and warehouse costs.

And helicopters are offering to pinpoint your delivery right at your doorstep.

Before You or Your Family Go Swimming
Read These Facts About "Swimmer's Ear"

Add to the list of summer discomforts tamed by science, the alarming onslaught of dizziness sometimes called "swimmer's ear."

Affecting people of all ages, this form of vertigo flares up as soon as hot humid weather makes swimming inviting.

Warning that excessive ear wax — particularly when the condition prevails in only one ear — may lead to serious or even dangerous consequences, Dr. Albert P. Selzer of the University of Pennsylvania Graduate Hospital made this point in a recent medical journal: common sense demands that removal of ear wax be part of every swimmer's summertime health routine.

Cold water entering the ear labyrinth responsible for body balance causes vertigo, the Philadelphia physician explained. When wax clogs an ear water fills one labyrinth and not the other. The resulting unbalanced reaction makes it difficult for the swimmer to judge body position.

Under these conditions swimmers often panic; many drown. Wax removal, of such prime importance to every swimmer, used to be a dangerous and complicated process. Fortunately the old technique of instrumentation and high pressure irrigation is being displaced by the use of a new drug formula, Kerid Drops. Scientific testing of the ingredients of Kerid reveal that the agent remarkably facilitates the safe and easy removal of ear wax within a matter of minutes.

Lefkowitz is a popular personality and has the warm support of Governor Nelson Rockefeller which could mean that the usually poverty-stricken Republican Party might have a sizeable campaign fund.

A week or so ago, one felt that the Democrats would forget their quarrel and would kiss and make up. At this moment it looks as though powerful forces in the Democratic Party in New York City are ready to throw the election. They could do this by running a third party, anti-Wagner, anti-Reform and put it all together, anti-Kennedy. If Lefkowitz should be elected Mayor, the Democratic organization would be left entirely without patronage, getting none from Washington or Albany or City Hall. The Democratic Party in New York City lives on patronage. It has done very well over the past 30 years. The Republicans, on the other hand, have enjoyed little patronage and are accustomed to political poverty. Should the Democrats be defeated in New York City in 1961, they could easily lose New York in 1962 and thus Nelson Rockefeller would be the Republican candidate for President in 1964.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

LONG BEFORE Van Cliburn became famous, another pianist, Louis Gottschalk, caught the public fancy. P. T. Barnum, in fact, offered him $20,000 and expenses for a series of concerts — and said he'd double the price if Gottschalk could train a seal to accompany him! Gottschalk once fooled the Boston critics by playing something by Beethoven when the program called for a composition of his own. No one noticed it!

I RESOLVE:

1. To soak up the sun gradually — long hours in blazing sunlight can redden and blister pale skin like my severe burn.
2. To gulp down salt tablets when I tank up with water on sultry days — failure to replace the salt that pours out in perspiration invites weakness, muscle cramps and serious sickness.
3. To discard unrefrigerated milk, custards and creamy desserts and salad dressings — on hot days germs often grow in and poison creamy foods within a few hours.
4. To make sure that my entire family shall have the polio protection of Salk shots, proper rest and healthful habits.
5. To clean, drain or otherwise do away with stagnant puddles in bird baths, old tin cans, etc. — baby mosquitoes thrive in these watery nurseries.
6. To ask my doctor about any rash or swelling that suggests allergy to bee stings — the next sting may stir up an alarming hornet's nest.
7. To spray, pull up or cut down ragweed and poison ivy that may be found in our yard.
8. To avoid burning poison ivy — the poison goes up in smoke to spread its itchy rash all over the neighborhood.
9. To ask my doctor about tetanus (lockjaw) injections in case of dirty cuts and scrapes — tetanus germs flower in soil.
10. To refrain from diving or jumping into deep water if I have sinus trouble — the sudden gush can injure delicate lining and drive infections into sinuses.
11. To explore all water thoroughly before diving head first — when divers conk their heads on rocks and logs just beneath the surface, broken necks and paralyzed limbs often wheelchair them for life.
12. Never to swim or skindive without a buddy — he can be a lifesaver when watery trouble strikes.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—New equipment and new methods of cargo handling are the hope of the nation's hard pressed airlines to capture new freight markets.

They talk in terms of jets and swing tails and containers and pallets—and of sales drives tailored to shippers' specific needs.

Two all cargo airlines, Flying Tiger and Seaboard World, are putting new turbo-prop swing tail freighters through shake down cruises.

Passenger lines with suddenly multiplied cargo capacity in their new and expensive jets are pushing hard for needed new business. Also they are converting to freighters their big piston liners superceded by the jets. American, for example, has converted 15 DC7s, TWA 12 Super Constellations. Pan AM's North Atlantic freight capacity this year will be twice that of last.

Cargo revenues have increased fairly steadily for several months for the lines as a whole. But the big break is ahead—they hope. For they concede that to tap the really big market, rates must come down. That means lower costs.

Already there has been some rate cutting. New rates go into effect for cross Atlantic freight September 1. Some commodity and tonnage rate cuts are announced between certain cities on coast to coast flights in domestic service.

Flying Tiger hopes that the 10 turboprops it is getting from Canadianair, Canadian subsidiary of General Dynamics, will bring its operating costs down 40 per cent, which could be translated into lower rates. The planes have added speed and tonnage mile capacity and a tail that swings to one side which makes for less expensive loading from the rear with less time lost on the ground. Robert W. Prescott, Flying Tiger president, says he hopes eventually to operate the planes at a cost per ton mile of less than 4 cents.

Seaboard World Airlines is getting the spadefoot toad of North America breeds in temporary pools created by heavy rains. The tiny toad eggs may hatch in a day and a half.

ting five Canadairs, each capable of carrying up to 65,000 pounds of freight nonstop across the Atlantic at an average of 400 m.p.h. It hopes to cut its ton-mile cost almost in half.

In the cargo holds of its new jets, and in its converted DC7s, American Airlines is carrying an increasing volume of freight says E.C. Taylor, vice president for Cargo Sales and Services. "In May American flew 16 per cent more revenue cargo ton miles than in May 1960, and in the first half of June the gain was 22 per cent over the like period a year ago."

TWA now has freighters on a five a week schedule to Europe and on regular non stop flights between the East and West coasts at home. Vice President Samuel C. Dunlap says ton miles on the international routes set a record in April, up 37 per cent from the previous year. In May the domestic ton miles flown topped a year ago by 41 per cent.

Pan American World Airways is adopting a system of freight pallets and rollers embedded in the floors of their planes. It reports loading time will be cut to less than a third of the former time.

All these processes aim at eventual rate cutting before really large scale expansion of airfreight can become a reality. But even with the present rates the airlines have some talking points in competition with other forms of transportation. They claim less loss and damage, cheaper crating, and the chance for manufacturers to cut their inventory requirements and warehouse costs.

And helicopters are offering to pinpoint your delivery right at your doorstep.

Local ASC Office Announces Wool Payment Percentage

Shorn wool payments for the 1960 marketing year will amount to 47.6 per cent of the dollar returns each producer received from the sale of shorn wool during the year, the Department of Agriculture has announced.

Marvin G. Stealy, chairman, Pickaway Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, points out that this is the percentage necessary to bring average wool prices up to the previously announced incentive level of 62 cents per pound under the national wool program. It means that the producer will receive an incentive payment of $47.60 for every $100 received from the sale of shorn wool during the wool marketing year ended March 31, 1961.

The payment rates on sales of lambs that have never been shorn to compensate for the wool on them will be 80 cents per hundred-weight of live animals sold. This payment is based on the shorn wool payment and is designed to discourage unusual shearing of lambs before marketing.

No payments will be made on mohair sold during the 1960 marketing year since the average mohair price of 89.7 cents per pound received by producers was above the mohair support price of 70 cents per pound.

ACCORDING TO the chairman, County ASC offices will begin making payments soon after July 1. Applications for payment had to be filed by April 30, 1961.

The payments will be made on shorn wool and unshorn lambs marketed from April 1, 1960, through March 31, 1961.

The incentive level for shorn wool for the current 1961 marketing year has also been announced at 62 cents per pound, the same as for each of the preceding years of the program. Program regula-

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Just 185 years ago Tuesday Congress let loose a revolutionary idea it didn't fully believe itself, a fact which makes it a little easier to understand the revolutions of today.

This was the idea: "That all men are created equal . . . with inalienable rights . . . among them life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Neither Congress, which approved those words in the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776, nor Thomas Jefferson, who wrote them, really believed "all" men are created equal.

They believed, in George Orwell's phrase, that some people are more equal than others.

The Declaration calmly ignored slavery, with which the colonies were loaded at the time. Even Jefferson, troubled though he was about human bondage, had slaves of his own and considered Negroes inferior.

The Founding Fathers, following the Declaration with the Constitution ratified in 1790, still didn't consider "all" men equal. Their Constitution not only didn't end slavery, it permitted slaves to be imported until 1808.

All this was done neatly, without once mentioning slaves or slavery.

"The failure to use either word is significant," Burton J. Hendrick wrote in 1937 in his book on the Constitution, "Bulwark of the Republic," but "it betrays the sense of apology, of shame, with which the makers approached a dangerous and even disagreeable subject."

It took a civil war to wipe out slavery. But even that couldn't establish as a fact in all American minds the high-sounding words in the declaration about men being equal.

The proof: Tuesday millions of Americans who rejoice in celebrating the stirring words in the Declaration of Independence still practice discrimination and segregation against Negroes, even perhaps while they celebrate.

The lesson from it all—applicable to what has happened here and is happening around the world now—is that when men, any group of men, white, black or yellow, have power they don't yield it easily, but abuse it.

Some recent examples: what the Negro strong men have done to one another in the Congo; what the Chinese Reds did to the people of Tibet; the Russian Communists' control of the satellite peoples of Europe and their savage suppression of the Hungarians who protested.

In this country the white men, outnumbering the Negroes, had the power to refuse them equal treatment and, for a long time, even freedom from slavery. For generations the Western nations, not because of their numbers but because of their military power, kept many millions of people in colonial subjection and exploited them.

Good example: The ignorance in which the Belgians kept the Negroes of the Congo.

Around the world as men in the backward nations began to understand a little more about equality and freedom, and as the Western nations grew weaker, the colonial period began to end.

But not quite. Look at Portugal's suppression of the natives in Angola and the long struggle of the people in Algeria to free themselves of the French. Perhaps the best break the backward peoples ever got was the result of power.

In this case it was a power struggle between the West and communism struggling for their allegiance, in some cases just for their neutrality, revolution is encouraged, restlessness has an outlet, hope is revived for a better life than their ancestors had.

Build in a Squeak

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Most Air Force maintenance men are trying to get rid of squeaks, but Sgt. Charles E. Cloney and Airman Thomas Saliski invented one to keep George Air Force Base pilots happy.

The base has a Link trainer in which pilots go through all the motions and most of the experiences of flying without ever leaving the ground. Used to keep fliers proficient in use of instruments, the trainer simulates airplane motion, engine noise and other flight sensations.

But pilots complained that "landings" in the trainer lacked realism because there was no squeak as tires supposedly made initial friction contact with the runway. Cloney and Saliski fixed that by constructing an electronic gadget that's connected to the trainer's electrical system to give a realistic squeak at the appropriate moment.

NORTH WILKESBORO, N. C. (AP) — Charlie Felts, 70, who retired after 30 years as a federal revenuer, is credited by some sources with destroying more moonshine liquor stills than any man in the country.

During his long career he compiled this record: Confiscated five million gallons of mash, 70,000 gallons of illegal whiskey which represented some $5.7 million in unpaid federal whiskey tax, and arrested 2,500 persons.

Role of Physician's Wife Changed in Last Few Years

NEW YORK (AP)—"I'll never forget the look on my husband's face," said the doctor's wife.

"It was 3 a.m. and the telephone rang. A woman with a toothache was calling. My husband listened patiently for quite a while, then he asked why she hadn't called her dentist. She said: 'I hate to bother him at this hour of the night.'"

Mrs. Elsie Kintner laughed, and the two doctors' wives listening to her story joined in, in sympathy. To them it was a familiar story, although the twist was new.

The three were talking shop at the annual meeting this week of the women's auxiliary to the American Medical Association. Mrs. Kintner, a pretty brunette from Elkhart, Ind., has daughters aged 9, 11, 13 and 15, and a husband, Burton, who's a general practitioner. Stately white-haired Mrs. Margaret English, wife of Neurologist Harlan English, Danville, Ill., is the new president of the auxiliary. Mrs. Nancy Roles of Prospect, Ky., mother of three teen-agers and wife of Dr. Earl W. Roles, a general surgeon, contributed the third opinion in the consultation.

All three agreed the job of being a doctor's wife has changed in the last few decades.

"She used to be just the person who answered the telephone, prepared the meals and got the doctor ready for the office," said Mrs. English. "Now she's an individual with definite community interests."

Mrs. Roles: "In the past, when we were more of a rural nation, the doctor's wife closely related to the persons and the families in the community. Today in large communities she is not only interested in the families, but she's active in promotion of public health projects. In women's clubs, for example, it's the doctor's wife who heads the health committee, takes leadership in community wide health activities."

"I think, too, that the doctor's wife in smaller communities is seen only as the doctor's wife. In larger places she's an individual."

Mrs. Kintner, youngest of the three, thought being a doctor's wife was a matter of adjusting.

"There are certain things we have to observe strictly, you see. Such as never talking about patients. And Burton never tells me about people I know. Of course, that's sometimes embarrassing, when a friend says indignantly 'didn't you know I've been in bed a week with a virus?'"

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

It's Her Perogative, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law must have a hundred pictures in her living room. She has them perched on every table, on top of the television, and her walls are covered with them. They are all pictures of her children when they were babies. All her children are married now, and she hasn't room for any of the recent pictures we give her because her house is cluttered with this ancient collection.

Do you think I should tell her that no one cares to see a baby picture of her 36-year-old son (my husband) naked on a fur rug? She has another one of him on a rented pony, and he looks like a moron. Don't tell me not to visit her because my husband is one of those devoted sons who always drags me there with him. Any suggestions?

CITY GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Your mother-in-law obviously likes to surround herself with this "ancient" collection. It's HER home. If you don't like it, keep your eyes closed. And your mouth, too.

DEAR ABBY: We are both under the legal age to be married in this state. Can we get married if we have friends who are over 21 sign for us? We both have parents living, but they would not sign for us, and we have to get married soon.

UNDER AGE

DEAR UNDER: You need your parents' (or a guardian's) signatures. Talk this over with your parents NOW.

DEAR ABBY: I have gone with this man for over 12 years. I am 14 years older than he is, but he has always said that age doesn't make any difference.

He makes good money and has no family obligations. I get the idea as time passes that he would be happier with a younger, prettier woman. He is tall and handsome and, when we are together, I know some people think I am

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD WOLF — Pictured are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wolf who were married June 24, in the Bethel Lutheran Church, Stronghurst, Ill. Role of Physician's Wife Changed in Last Few Years

NEW YORK (AP)—"I'll never forget the look on my husband's face," said the doctor's wife.

"It was 3 a.m. and the telephone rang. A woman with a toothache was calling. My husband listened patiently for quite a while, then he asked why she hadn't called her dentist. She said: 'I hate to bother him at this hour of the night.'"

Mrs. Elsie Kintner laughed, and the two doctors' wives listening to her story joined in, in sympathy. To them it was a familiar story, although the twist was new.

The three were talking shop at the annual meeting this week of the women's auxiliary to the American Medical Association. Mrs. Kintner, a pretty brunette from Elkhart, Ind., has daughters aged 9, 11, 13 and 15, and a husband, Burton, who's a general practitioner. Stately white-haired Mrs. Margaret English, wife of Neurologist Harlan English, Danville, Ill., is the new president of the auxiliary. Mrs. Nancy Roles of Prospect, Ky., mother of three teen-agers and wife of Dr. Earl W. Roles, a general surgeon, contributed the third opinion in the consultation.

All three agreed the job of being a doctor's wife has changed in the last few decades. "She used to be just the person who answered the telephone, prepared the meals and got the doctor ready for the office," said Mrs. English. "Now she's an individual with definite community interests."

Mrs. Roles: "In the past, when we were more of a rural nation, the doctor's wife closely related to the persons and the families in the community. Today in large communities she is not only interested in the families, but she's active in promotion of public health projects. In women's clubs, for example, it's the doctor's wife who heads the health committee, takes leadership in community wide health activities."

"I think, too, that the doctor's wife in smaller communities is seen only as the doctor's wife. In larger places she's an individual."

Mrs. Kintner, youngest of the three, thought being a doctor's wife was a matter of adjusting. "There are certain things we have to observe strictly, you see. Such as never talking about patients. And Burton never tells me about people I know. Of course, that's sometimes embarrassing, when a friend says indignantly 'didn't you know I've been in bed a week with a virus?'"

REDS A ROUSING RIOT—Those Cincy Reds, pennantless for 21 years, may be on the way this season as they continue to lead the N.L. pack with a combination of fine pitching and some hot hitting streaks by Frank Robinson and Vada

Pinson. The Reds are managed by Freddie Hutchinson, a former pitcher, who became bench boss in July, 1959, after serving as manager at Detroit, Seattle and St. Louis. Joey Jay and Ken Hunt are hot hurriers. (Central Press)

Trio Is Tied For Honors in Flint Open

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Johnny Pott, a golfing youngster, and tournament-wise Jackie Burke and Billy Casper battle it out today over 18 extra holes to settle the deadlocked Flint Open. None of the three—tied at 284 after 72 holes—is a stranger to playoffs. Casper, Burke and Pott came n ahead Sunday as Dave Ragan blew up on Warwick Hill's last four holes with the $9,000 victory in his grasp. Ragan, tied with Casper and Pott for the second-third round lead, bogied the 15th, 16th and 17th holes and set up today's dramatic finish. If it's still tied after the extra session there will be an immediate sudden-death shooting match. "I knew I had it all wrapped up and then I blew it," sighed Ragan. He finished a stroke behind the co-leaders with a final round of 74, his only over-par round at par 36-36-72 Warwick Hills. Casper and Pott also had pressure trouble on the back nine and shot 73s. Burke was the only leader with a strong final round. He whittled down a 3-stroke, third-round deficit with a brilliant 35-35-70. Pott had a chance to win it on the 18th. But his straight 15-foot putt rolled short by inches. Casper, victor in the inaugural Flint Open in 1958 and 1959 National Open king, was one-under-par going into the back nine. But he bogied 11 and 12 before settling down for six straight pars. Mason Rudolph, Al Baldin, Ted Kroll and Bob Rosburg each earned $2,000 by tying for fifth at 287.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—When B. N. (Doc) Parsons retired after 34 years as basketball and track coach at Niagara Falls High School, Niagara University cage coach John (Taps) Gallagher told 150 sports fans at a testimonial dinner: "We seem to be divided into two groups, one that played for Doc Parsons and the other that wished they had."

BLAMES OUR MATERIALISM—Attorney General Robert Kennedy tells reporters in New York that the materialism of the American people, "getting a bigger TV set, a bigger car, and earning an extra buck," is responsible for organized crime. He said there is a limit to what the government can do to combat it as long as these things are so important to people.

Unions, Management Open Labor Talks in 3 Industries

NEW YORK (AP) — Union and management squared off across the negotiating tables in three big industries last week.

Last-ditch efforts were being made to settle the two-week-old maritime strike before President Kennedy seeks Taft-Hartley law injunction for an 80-day cooling-off period.

Government officials got the rival factions back into the conference rooms for more talks. Main issue is the unions' desire to organize crews on American-owned ships operating under flags of other countries.

The National Maritime Union and the American Merchant Marine Institute and the Tanker Labor Committee reached a conditional agreement on a four-year contract which could clear the way for settlement.

A similar agreement was sought with the Masters, Mates and Pilots, the American Radio Association, the International Seafarers Union and the Marine Engineers Union.

The strike has made a sizable dent in deliveries of oil and other supplies and in passenger service. Hawaii and Puerto Rico were particularly hard hit.

Contract negotiations got under way between the United Auto Workers and General Motors, Chrysler and Ford. Contracts expire Aug. 31.

Louis G. Seaton, GM vice president and chief negotiator, warning against inflation, said: "An excessive increase in labor costs, whether in the form of wages or in fringe benefits, can only contribute to unbalanced wage and price movements."

UAW President Walter P. Reuther countered that an expansion of purchasing power is needed and that the union "wants its share of the fruits of technology."

Negotiations were in progress between the Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and Kennecott Copper Corp. The company offered a wage increase of 7½ cents an hour in a package it said was worth 10 cents an hour. The union demanded an 8½-cent wage boost.

President Kennedy told top labor leaders that the recession was over but acknowledged that "many economic problems will continue to confront us and demand our best efforts."

His statement was directed to the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations. The council replied that "real recovery is nowhere in sight" and that unemployment is "a basic and continuing affliction."

A congressional hearing on legislation to provide $750,000 to finance an investigation of stock markets and mutual funds brought a statement from Chairman William C. Calkins of the Securities and Exchange Commission that there was "evidence of a substantial amount of manipulation."

The proposed inquiry was endorsed by William H. Clafin III, chairman of the National Association of Securities Dealers. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said he felt the SEC should go ahead with investigations already under way but opposed broadening the inquiry to include the NYSE. He said he considered the NYSE's rules and enforcement adequate.

The consumers have gotten a break although they may not have realized it. The cost of living inched down one-tenth of one per cent in May. This was due mainly to a decline in meat and grocery costs.

However, the outlook for buyers is spotty. International Shoe Co. and Genesco, Inc., said they would raise shoe prices. Furniture manufacturers were reported considering increasing prices. The big Chicago mail order firm, Spiegel, Inc., issued a fall catalogue with prices averaging 1.5 per cent under a year ago.

Automobile dealers sold 156,438 new passenger cars in the middle 10 days of June at a daily rate 16.9 per cent above the first one-third of the month.

Production during the week slipped to an estimated 122,000 cars from 129,294 last week. The industry completed the first half of the year about 1.1 million cars behind the production rate of a year ago. The output was 2.7 million cars.

Steel production dipped about one-half of one per cent during the week from the previous week, totaling 1,978,000 tons. Operations have dropped from about 75 per cent of capacity in May to around 70 per cent.

Contracts let in May for construction showed a five per cent gain over a year ago. The total of $3.50 billion reflected substantial increases in highways, commercial building, electric light and power systems and apartments.

The stock market this week dribbled off to its third straight weekly decline. Volume fell from 16,076,560 last week to 13,554,210 this week and was the smallest since 12,709,925 shares were traded in the week ended Nov. 26.

Bond sales rose this week to $25,454,000 from $25,158,000 the previous week. At this time a year ago, sales were $24,883,000.

Rich in rice, fish, tropical fruits and other foods, the 25½ million people of Thailand enjoy the highest standard of living in southern Asia.
